Last Wednesday a city grader was involved with grading and filling a roadway across a piece of city-owned land near the Ames Plaza.

A city hall source said that this is a one yearly practice to smooth out the surface of a road" which cuts from Seventh Avenue to the Ames Plaza over the triangular piece of land the city owns between those two points. At one time the land was being considered for several projects, including a new city garage for city vehicles. Just recently the Pioneer Days Committee sought council's permission to purchase the land for its annual celebration.

However, the committee held off on buying the land for this year's celebration.
